“NATURAL WONDERS” By American Sculptor, Michele Moushey Dale of Wisconsin

Natural Wonders is a story of caring for our natural world as much as we care for ourselves. This sculpture explores and encourages us to become wise stewards of our fragile environment so we can enjoy days where our imaginations can soar in a world of beauty for all creatures.

This bronze features a young person looking forward into his future. He is caught imagining glimpses of all of the many fantastic creatures around him. He understands that these animals rely on clean environments and waterways to live, just like him. He imagines the birds and bees soaring in the air and he follows the swirling path of the fish that swim having fun in the water. He realizes that he may not always see the deer, opossum, toads, blue herons and other creatures because they are shy or travel at night but he knows they are around him from the signs he sees of their tracks left in the mud on the turtles shell. He imagines a hat made of a nest or maybe a beehive and how he's told bees are important for growing his food. He wonders how he, his family and his friends can be a part of keeping them alive to see and enjoy.
